A talk by SALLY HOLLINGS and PRUE NICHOLS

Poems on Paving Stones The Exeter Cathedral Green inscriptions

In 2011, as part of a plan to enhance the landscape setting of Exeter Cathedral, paving stones carved with inscriptions were set in the entrances to the Cathedral Green. In their talk, Sally Hollings and Prue Nichols will consider these inscriptions, describe how they came to be chosen, and look at the poems from which they were drawn and the poets who wrote them. An interesting and varied anthology emerges!

All are welcome. Members £2, Non members £3.

Tea, coffee and biscuits provided. Ample free parking behind Crediton church
